SUMMARY

Tanzania is considered to be the best safari destination on earth. The country is home to the iconic Serengeti National Park and acclaimed Ngorongoro Conservation Area – both of which are UNESCO World Heritage Sites. More than 25% of Tanzania's land is devoted to national parks, game reserves and conservation areas – the highest of any African country.

Whether you have a short stay or extended vacation, Ultimate Kilimanjaro® Safaris has an itinerary that suits your desires. All trips include private guides and vehicles, charming accommodations, delicious food and spectacular wildlife.

WHAT ARE THE BIG FIVE?

The term "Big Five" originated from African big game hunters to describe the animals that were most difficult to hunt on foot. They are: lion, elephant, buffalo, rhino, leopard. All can be seen in Tanzania.

OUR GUIDES

Staffed by professional guides who have intimate knowledge of the parks, our safaris bring you up close and personal with Tanzania's wildlife. Our guides know where to find animals through experience or through communication with a network of other guides. They can regularly spot hidden animals from great distances and maneuver to the right place for an unforgettable encounter.

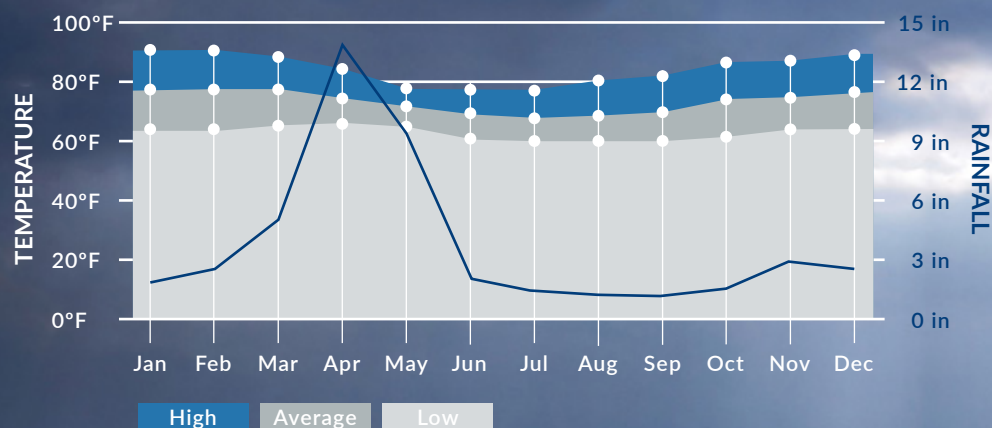

OUR VEHICLES

We have a fleet of well-maintained, four wheel drive safari vehicles. Our Toyota Land Cruisers, the standard for safaris in Africa, can seat from four to seven passengers depending on the size of the vehicle. Each comes with a custom pop up roof allowing for an unobstructed game viewing experience.

WHEN TO VISIT

Our safaris are offered year round. The wildlife migrates seasonally based primarily on the availability of food and water. Certain parks and locations offer more opportunities for game viewing than others at different times of the year. However, we encourage you to visit as many parks as possible during your visit. Our clients thoroughly enjoy their safari experiences no matter when they come. Therefore, the best time to for a safari is whenever you can.

They endure the physical challenge while they are fresh from their training and then relax and recover during the safari. Others embark on a safari first to adjust to the new time zone, food and surroundings before tackling the mountain.

ARUSHA NATIONAL PARK

Arusha National Park, although a rather small park, is remarkable for its range of habitats. Arusha National Park features a miniature volcanic crater (Ngurduto Crater), a river (Jekukumia River), a highland rain forest, acacia woodlands and a string of crater lakes (Momella Lakes). The park is a home to Colobus monkeys, velvet monkeys, buffalo, hippos, elephants, and giraffe. Waterfowl is abundant here as well. Arusha National Park offers many beautiful panoramic views, including spectacular views of both Mount Kilimanjaro and Mount Meru.

The most famous residents of the park are the tree climbing lions, which are occasionally seen on the branches of acacia trees. NGORONGORO CRATER

Ngorongoro Conservation Area houses one of the world's greatest natural spectacles - the Ngorongoro Crater, home to almost 30,000 animals. Once an active volcano, Ngorongoro Crater collapsed leaving a caldera 12 miles in diameter. With no breaks at all in its steep walls, this is the largest intact caldera in existence. The bottom of the crater is dotted with watering holes and is naturally enclosed by the slopes of the volcano. The crater is famous for viewing black rhinos, elephant, buffalo, zebra, wildebeest, gazelle, monkeys and ever hungry predators including lions and hyenas.

Here one can witness the unique migration of almost 1.5 million wildebeest undertake a circuit of 600 miles in search of new pastures, from the central plains to the permanent water holes at the park corridors. About 35 species of plain animals can be observed including the 'big five' - elephants, rhinos, lions, leopards, buffalos - and large herds of wildebeest, gazelle and zebra.

OLDUVAI GORGE

Olduvai Gorge is known as the 'Cradle of Mankind'. Through the excavation of Dr. Louis Leakey and his wife Mary, the gorge has yielded numerous remains dating back almost two million years. The remains of the earliest human were found in this area which revolutionized theories of how humans evolved. The historical findings of the famous skull, other fossils and stone artifacts have strengthened the belief that Africa is the birthplace of prehistoric man. Olduvai Gorge lies between the great wildlife sanctuaries of the Ngorongoro Crater and Serengeti National Park.
